Good feeling for more than three years DEV Systemtechnik prolongs warranty period to 37 months

A warranty period prolongation from 24 months so far to 37 months starting July 1, 2011, confirms DEV Systemtechnik's confidence in the excellent quality and reliability of its products. Users with even higher systems availability requirements addresses DEV with standardized or customer specific service packages.

Up to now not one single DEV product had to be called back from the field because of technical failures or non-conformity to specifications. Prolonging the warranty period to more than three years gives DEV customers another investment incentive and safeguard, imparting additional security and simply a good feeling.

For customers who would like to install, configurate or insure their products for future requirements past the 37 months warranted, DEV offers support packs with terms of up to ten years. At request DEV bundles services to customer specific packages for complete systems or projects.
